

PhD students at IBF

IBF is a multi-disciplinary research institute with eight PhD positions. Each position is, however, connected to a PhD programme at one of the discipline departments, i.e. Economics, Sociology, Government, or Social and Economic Geography. On average, one PhD student within each discipline will be engaged by IBF every second year. Admissions to the programmes are handled by the respective departments and not by IBF.

More information about the programmes is available under the addresses below:

Department of Economics,

www.nek.uu.se

Department of Sociology,

www.soc.uu.se/forskarutbansok.php

Department of Government,

www.statsvet.uu.se/Utbildning/Forskarutbildning/tabid/415/language/en-US/Default.aspx

Department of Social and Economic Geography,

www.kultgeog.uu.se/futb/default.htm

Please note that there is a shortage of positions in postgraduate studies in most subjects. Note also that competition is keen because of the limited number of positions available. In most cases, prior knowledge of Swedish and especially English is needed in order for your studies to be meaningful.